RESTAURANT BALKAN EKSPRES

Rocked by the waves of the Danube and the greenery of Banat across the river, bathed in the ringing of Zemun's churches and ship sirens, enriched with the scents of water, earth, grass, and flowers, wrapped in the košava wind and gazing at Belgrade – the Balkan Ekspres wagon has been patiently welcoming guests and even the latest travelers for nearly three decades.

It pays no mind to high-speed rails... It will remain the last train you can surely board. Because here, there is no rush. Here, you simply enjoy.

In that distant year, 1998, in Zemun – on the very edge of the hill above the Danube, between small town houses and gardens – railway tracks were laid, and on them, a single train wagon was placed.

Right there, a new restaurant was born. Although it was named BALKAN EKSPRES, the neighbors and its first, most loyal guests soon started calling it “The Wagon”, and that name has stayed with it to this day.
